

Edinburgh Gadda Prize, Harvard Edition – closing date 5 March 2015

Award Ceremony: Cambridge, 25 April 2015

I am delighted to confirm that the Harvard edition of the Edinburgh GaddaPrize will take place in Cambridge, 25 April 2015, as part of Chiasmi 2015, 24–25 April.

Harvard and Edinburgh are bringing together a special edition of Novecento in Saggio, Category Three of the Edinburgh GaddaPrize, www.gaddaprizet.ed.ac.uk, to celebrate early career scholarship in Italian Studies.

Authors and publishers may enter monographs, commented editions, defended doctoral theses, substantial book chapters and peer reviewed journal articles on any aspect of 20thc Italian creative prose writing. The submission process (pdf file plus one hard copy) involves a registration fee (25.00 GBP). There are three Prizes of 1,200 USD each to cover travel and accomodation costs incurred to attend the award ceremony in Cambridge.

The events programme, which is sponsored by Harvard University, will include the US premiere of Fabrizio Gifuni's award-winning play 'GaddaGoes to War', and the official presentation of the book 'Gadda Goes to War. Translational Provocations around an Emergency' (EUP 2013), which resulted from the UK premiere of the show and the 2012 edition of the Prize.

The Harvard edition of the Edinburgh Gadda Prize is generously supported by Tony Crolla.
